Patron sponsors the 2021 Frankton 75 Cockleshell Kayakathon supporting the RMA- Royal Marines Charity

Patron was enormously pleased to fully sponsor the 2021 Kayakathon event which saw 36 novice and experienced Kayakers join us yesterday for a 21 mile kayak along the Thames raising close to £15,000 to date and growing as fundraising continues for RMA – The Royal Marines and The Special Boat Service Association and highlighting the needs of veterans from these elite services. The group were also joined by UK Special Forces officer Mark Bowen has now dedicated himself to helping others find their Invictus inner selves, by setting up the Bowra Foundation in which the motto (www.bowra-foundation.org)

During the event participants heard from the SBS's own official historian the importance military Kayaking played as a silent means of approach on sabotage raids in occupied territories during World War II. More than 75 years on, the Royal Marines and SBS are still renowned as being the experts in the use of military kayaks and London Cockleshell Endeavour was a unique opportunity to commemorate the bravery of all those who have made the ultimate sacrifice to ensure the freedom that we enjoy today.
